Full job description

Your new company

Our client is a leading residential builder with one of the most diverse project portfolios in the industry. With a strong presence in the medium density space that have a project pipeline that as a minimum is sorted for next 24 months!

Your new role

Due to continued growth and significant project wins an exciting opportunity has arisen for a talented production estimator to work in their medium density space. The duties of the role will include but not be limited to

- Prepare quotation requests to suppliers and major contractors
- Complete BOQ for the ordering of labour and materials
- Review cost breakdowns against project budgets

What you'll need to succeed

In order to be considered for this exciting role ideally you will have

- strong estimating background in either medium density, residential or commercial construction space,
- Experience with Databuild , Blue Beam or similar estimating programs
- have high level of attention to detail,
- be a strong communicator and able to offer feedback and ideas as well as receive direction
- be willing to immerse yourself in a high achieving and driven team environment.

What you'll get in return

For your expertise and experience you will not only be joining an industry leading organisation who provide strong recognition and support to their people, but a generous salary package that will be considered favourably within the industry.
